

John Jackman

Speaker, Author, Filmmaker, Pastor

John Jackman is a speaker, pastor, philosopher, and award-winning filmmaker who lives at the intersection of faith, science, ethics, and history. He brings four decades of pastoral insight together with a scholar's wide-ranging curiosity about how the mind works and how belief shapes behavior. Drawing from neuroscience, faith history, and cultural observation, John challenges audiences to rethink certainty, understand their cognitive blind spots, and rediscover intellectual humility as a path to deeper wisdom. A former instructor for the American Film Institute and lecturer at the Library of Congress, he combines visual storytelling, humor, and provocative insight in a style that is accessible, energetic, and thought-stirring. Whether addressing churches, universities, or mixed audiences, John leaves listeners intellectually challenged, inspired to embrace doubt as courageous searching, and newly awakened to the mystery that lies beneath what we think we know.

Keynotes

Solving Medical Debt

The medical system in the US is broken..how can it be solved?

Don't Believe Everything You Think!

A winsome and entertaining exploration of our own biases – and how we can learn to improve our critical thinking.

Square Mile Churches

How small neighborhood churches can transform the world – and do far more than just keep the doors open.

Failing Forward:

Turning Rejection into Success

A story of failure and how John used it as a stepping stone to success. Ideal for High School and college ages.

History of Hell

Deconstructing the ideal of Hell and everlasting punishment – is it in the Bible?

John Jackman is a great and captivating speaker. He will certainly engage audiences with wit, compassion, and a heady dose of solid factual research.

- Kimberly Reed
Award-Winning Filmmaker
Former Editor-in-Chief, DV Magazine

To learn more or book John to speak at your event, visit our website, email, or call.

info@johnjackman.com

www.johnjackman.com

(336) 528-4422